

What is There to Celebrate Today

Elegant birds tweeting,
Lovely sun comes around.

The squelchy, squashy mud slithers up your shoes,
Feel the fresh air rushing pass your soft face.

The sound of children playing happily.

Beautiful colours blaze around,
Bright, blue sky flies about.

Animals talk now and then,
Listen to the wind flying against your ears.
The joy of the environment around you.

Look at the colours come to the ground,
Spiky shells lie on the ground.

Hear the crunching sound of leaves,
The dead leaves feel brown.

The year flying by.

By Kieran

Attingham
response