

Hello Everyone,

Time for music!

Week 10

This week we are going to have some fun with percussion sounds.

Percussion instruments are instruments that you strike or scrape or shake.

Can you think of any?

Instead of using maracas, claves and drums, we are going to use our bodies to make percussion sounds.

- Go to the link and join in with me singing Kye Kye Kule, A call-and-echo song from Africa. We will add in some body percussion sounds too.

(available for two weeks)

Stop the video to practise each part of the song.

Here are the words:

Kye kye kule
Kye kye kule

Kye kye kofinsa
Kye kye kofinsa

Kofinsa langa
Kofinsa langa

Kaka shi langa
Kaka shi langa

Kum adende
Kum adende

Can you think of new body percussion sounds to go with the song?

Kum adende. Hey!

(Everyone sings the last line together)

- Now go to the instructions below and have a go at this body percussion activity. These are the sounds you will need:

Chest!

Clap!

Click!

Foot tap!

Instructions:

Watch the performers on the video who invented body percussion (that means clapping, clicking and stamping actions) to the song Dance Monkey.

Can you copy them?

Then can you create your own actions along to this song, or another of your favourite songs?

Why not Video yourself and share with family or friends?

Have fun!
